

Everything I read and hear indicates that consolidating media outlets will lead to controlled information by the few. I believe this is so. The present system seems to be working. Why try to fix something that isn't broken?